MY PERSPECTIVE

Life returns to at least a degree of normality

Getting back to normal

It is good to see life returning to at least a degree of normality. It has been good to worship each week with the Christians in East Kilbride and recently to resume our mid-week Bible class. It is good to be able to go out to eat and to visit in the homes of our friends and family. These were the part of life that we missed for too many months.

Perhaps this was driven home more at the British Bible School Autumn Family Retreat which was held a couple of weeks ago at Letton Hall in Norfolk. It was wonderful actually to be with so many we had not seen in person for almost two years. We saw how each other had changed – and how much the children had grown!

I think we all realise that life will never be what it was pre-pandemic. And in many areas most would agree that it is good that it won't be. Working from home is now a possibility for many and some businesses have now incorporated this into how they operate. We had heard for many years that this was how it would be in the future – perhaps the future has finally arrived! Face-coverings remain in certain settings – and perhaps they should have been here all along, like many countries do when colds and viruses are rampant.

Without a doubt this pandemic will have left its mark on our society. I hope that we value collective worship and fellowship with other Christians more than we did. I am thankful that we had the technology that allowed us to meet and study online – undoubtedly we should have figured out how to do this long before the pandemic struck. But at least we now have it and are able to utilise it for the good of the Kingdom.

As we move forward to a new normality how do we face the future? Do we look longingly back at what we had pre-pandemic? Or do we see what more we can do now and learn the lessons of doing life 'different'.

When Paul wrote to the Christians in Philippi he said this: “But one thing I do: forgetting what is behind and straining towards what is ahead, I press on towards the goal to win the prize for which God has called me heavenwards in Christ Jesus” (Philippians 3:13-14 NIV).

Paul was not tied to the past. He forgot what was behind him because what was important was what was ahead of him. He forgot his past failures. He forgot his past successes. These did not matter as he continued on his journey towards eternity with Jesus.

As we move forwards from the past year we need to do the same. No matter how we have felt about restrictions or how people didn't follow the restrictions we need to let it go. We can't allow that to hold us back as we encourage each other in our walk with Jesus.

We can't let the pandemic define us. Jesus needs to define everything about us. We need to press on together towards the prize for which God has called us heavenwards in Jesus the Messiah. Let us show those around us what true unity in him is all about.

CONGRATULATIONS!

New Christian in Liverpool

Please rejoice with us as Reggie Oliver submitted his life to Christ on Saturday, 25th September. Reggie was raised in Guinea, West Africa. He converted to the Church of England a few years ago. After studying the Bible with us, he came to realise his need for Jesus. Please keep him in your prayers as he begins his walk with the Christ.

Mike Glover

It is time for another confession, I had almost forgotten a book that is filled with history, love and hate, poetic emotion and sarcasm that cuts like a knife. The name of the book is Jeremiah. Not a book for a quick read, as it has long chapters, strange names, a lot of “son ofs”, but filled with thrilling encounters of a preacher who could hear the voice of God and challenged the greatest in the land.

Oh, I remembered Jeremy being put into a muddy pit and when his friend wrote out his message from God to the King, that his pages were cut off with a penknife and thrown into the fire. What I had almost forgotten when reading the text all over again was like reading the news of our own country. Everyone wanted to do what they wanted to do, they thought that doing what God wanted was a load of rubbish. They wanted their own thoughts, their own actions and their own form of worship even if that was nothing more than worshipping a stick of wood.

I laughed when he referred to the religion of the day when he writes: “Like a scarecrow in a melon patch their idols cannot speak” (Jeremiah 10:5 – well, that tells them! thought I to myself). But was saddened when I read that the land of Moab was like a broken pot that no one wants (48:38).

If you have not read Jeremiah before, give yourself a challenge, you will find a God of love and a God of wrath. It can stir the soul of the poet within you and make you sit back and think and then be thankful.

Ever such a delightful weekend

There was something particularly special about this year's Autumn Family Retreat at Letton Hall in Norfolk. For many this was the first time in eighteen weekends is the way in which everybody pitches in to make the event run smoothly – in just the way that families ought to be.

We enjoyed great mealtimes together, listened to a months that they had been able to enjoy being in the presence of so many outside their immediate family circles, and to do so within the company of a yet greater family.

There were just over sixty of us who gathered together for the weekend, with ages ranging from not-terribly-long-having-arrived-in-this-world to some-even-older-than-the-rest-of-us. One of the delightful aspects of these increasingly popular few teaching sessions, joined together in singing songs of praise and encouragement, played together in the splendid gardens and generally loved being a part of another very special weekend.

It's time to Act

As we look ahead to November, plans are very much underway for our Autumn Bible Study Week at Bassenfell Manor in the Lake District. The event will

This event is ideally suited for any who wish to grow in their knowledge and understanding of the word of God – and certainly a ‘must’ for any who are leading in areas of teaching and sharing in the Word.

We thank you for your continued encouragement and support of this work. May God bless each one of us.

Three cheers for the beautiful fellowship that was enjoyed at Letton Hall this year. An absolute thrill to meet with loved ones in Christ that we have not seen for months, to make new friends, to laugh, to cry, to encourage, to console, to sing, to think, to eat, to wash dishes and do all these together because we love Jesus.

Thanks to the organisers, the cooks, the teachers, the clearer-uppers, those who looked after the little people and took mercy on the aged. Every now and again something special happens – it did at Letton Hall.

If you thought it was too far to travel, plan a longer venture and make a little holiday for yourself. Where else can you go for a deal like this?

WARMHEARTMALAWI

We established WARMHEARTMALAWI as a charity in 2007, allowing us to work with UK schools on education projects in Malawi. We initially worked with Davison and Keston Ndhlovu at Ekwendeni Church Primary School. For the past 7 years we partnered a village secondary school in Bulala, where Falawo Kanjinga, a preacher in Malawi, and his wife Lidesi oversee the girls' hostel.

in Bulala. Rob contacted me in May, saying that he planned to run over 500 miles to raise funds for WHM and wanted a project. (He completed his challenge in August.) With Samson Chima, builder and preacher, as our contractor/project manager, we plan to build a hostel to accommodate 24 girls in Mbalachanda, right on the Zambian border. Currently these girls are sleeping in a classroom for four nights per week as it is too far to travel from home every day.

The "Guest House" will also be used in school holidays by Nick O'Donovan's dental team, and by visitors working with the school. The estimated cost for building this and an adjacent house for Samson Chima and his wife Lister is £13,000. Rob has currently raised over £5,000 with more expected towards his target of £8,600.

Ruth Kamlawanga, 21, says: "Our culture is that if a girl has reached 18 she must get married. Many people insult me by saying I am getting old and not get married, but because I know the benefits of school I don't want to be pulled down by their ideas. I want to be their role model." Ruth, from Mutu church, is one of our sponsored Higher Ed students on the final year of a Public Health Diploma course.

I am aware that UK churches are generally small and contribute massively to so many causes – one of the reasons we chose not to appeal through the CW for help on our previous projects. Nevertheless, if anyone would like to donate please contact me for details for bank transfers or send cheques payable to WarmHeartMalawi to Geoff Partington,

A big problem for girls who want a secondary education (open only to the top 25% or so in final "primary exams" around age 14), is that they may live up to 20 km (12 miles) from the nearest school.

In 2017, Rob Yates was the lead teacher of a 6th Form trip and stayed at the hostel

INDIA: BREATH OF LIFE

Breath of Life is one of the most satisfying relief works that we have been involved in during recent years. With your kind and timely help, we saved thousands of people from the mouth of untimely death and the impact it had, and gratitude expressed both by the individual and the family, is beyond words. The very disturbing pictures of people dying in hundreds due to lack of oxygen and the mass cremations all over India melted our hearts to cry out for an emergency help to buy Oxygen Equipment.

The response we received is beyond our imagination. Churches all around the UK and Singapore responded quickly. Even though the prices had risen sharply from the time we enquired to the time we actually bought the machines (we almost ended up paying double due to the huge demand and scarcity of the machines), we were able to purchase twelve high quality machines from five litre to ten litre capacity. Some of the machines were delivered from Delhi, Ahmedabad and Hyderabad, 600 km to 1800 km from Kakinada. We shared them with congregations and individuals in Vizag, Vijayawada, Hyderabad and Kakinada areas.

A team of Christian doctors coordinated the allocation and maintenance of machines based on the patients' requirements. They said that not one of the machines had been idle since they were added to the inventory. As there was always someone waiting, they barely had time to disinfect the machines before they could be given to another patient. Our machines have mainly been used to help patients in rural areas where there were no proper medical facilities – rural places are often deprived of proper medical facilities.

Thankfully, the demand has slowed down from mid-July as the Covid cases have come down and more oxygen was made available by the government. Many countries around the world have joined in this fight for oxygen and helped India to breathe. Due to Covid restrictions and sensitivity, we could not take photos of all the patients. Out of all the patients whom we have helped with oxygen concentrators, either to reach hospital or to secure a bed with Oxygen Support, only two patients have died. The remaining have all recovered and been reunited with their families.

As an aftermath to Covid, Black Fungus cases are slowly raising in Kakinada area – since May 486 people have died due to Black Fungus. The injections being used to treat Black Fungus are about £70 each and a patient is required to take at least 16-20 of these injections. Under the #Breath of Life project we were able join hands to help two patients get Black Fungus treatment.

As medical expert reports warn us about an imminent third wave of Covid in the months of October and November, we are getting ready to fight the battle again. We don't know how severe it will be this time. Vaccination is going on at full swing, our new medical facilities are added, so we are more prepared than before. One of the predictions is that children will be the most effected in the third wave. Whatever it is going to be, we must face it and fight it. We are getting ready with our medical supplies this time and are needing to acquire emergency medical supplies for children. We taking our medical team's advice and are contacting vendors for equipment specifically for children so that, if the situation requires it, we will humbly serve the community and our children.

#Breath of Life (#BOL) has certainly caused a visual and immediate tangible effect on the community and the families we served. After witnessing the impact of #BOL, Lord willing we want to make this as new arm of Bethsaida to serve people medically. Please pray about this new initiative. Once again thank you for all your prayers and support.

Naeem Sabir is thankful for the recent help to buy Bibles, there is a constant need for more. He writes to tell us that they have had 43 baptisms and are working with some Hindu families.

Naeem has three children and is raising another three orphans whose parents were killed by Muslim neighbours. He continues to seek help for Bibles, orphans and for himself in an aggressive and difficult environment.

PHILIPPINES

Last week, I turned 57. I am most grateful for this life spent serving with the Lord. After all, this is my 31st year in full-time service with the Lord's people.

Our community food pantry continues to thrive. By God's amazing grace, donations, both big and small, trickle in from the most unexpected sources week after week. My family and I are humbled to be able to serve the volunteers (my neighbours), the elderly, persons with disabilities, and undernourished children that benefit from the food pantry (now on its 24th week!).

In the past month, two of the elderly women we have served passed from this life. Nanay Vicky lost her battle with cancer while Nanay Menang died from diabetes complications. These are some of the people that this community food pantry is serving every week.

There is no telling when this lockdown will be over. The government keeps varying the level of strictness every fortnight. Right now, we still are on a stricter lockdown where most businesses are still not allowed to operate. Thus, many people remain jobless and desperate for food.

We had another strong earthquake (magnitude 5.7 on the Richter scale) the other day. We were roused from our sleep at 1:12 am by violent rocking. Thankfully, we were spared from harm.

Many of the people I know in the congregation have had or are still struggling with Covid. Please remember them in your prayers. We have had quite a scare recently as quite a few of our neighbours were also infected. This dreadful virus is everywhere. Please be careful and stay safe.

Thank you for all your prayers. God bless you always.

Mike Njiru has developed Covid-19 pneumonia and because of the hospital difficulties the only way is to provide help is private care. The Christians in Wimbledon have raised 7,000 USD towards a cost of 30,000 USD.

The school is the only Christian School in the area. The facilities are also used as a Bible study centre for preachers, promoting unity, scripture knowledge and evangelistic encouragement. Over the years great difficulties have been overcome and permanent buildings had to be provided to continue this work.

Local Christians took out loans to help the project along but because of the pandemic the school was closed for a whole year and finances have dried up leaving the whole project in the balance. There has been no Governmental help. Teachers have not been receiving wages and loans are not being repaid.

They have always tried to financially continue this work themselves but they now need help and appeal to British congregations to share fellowship with them. The Lewisham congregation is heading this project – one of the enhance their spiritual development and enable them to grow closer to God.

Aim:

- To provide the necessary support to enable every Christian lady to experience a life changing relationship with Christ and the brethren.

Objectives:

- Plan and deliver events and activities that address the spiritual, emotional and mental needs of ladies and promote fellowship.
- To encourage, support, strengthen, and connect ladies within the 'church' community as they pursue a closer relationship with Christ in their lives and in their circles of influence.
- To create a safe space where ladies can share their challenges or needs in a non-judgemental and supportive environment.
- To support ladies in their quest to know and understand who God is.
- To make referrals where necessary according to individual needs.
- To be an ambassador of Christ displaying the fruit of the Spirit in our everyday interactions with others to reflect God's love, compassion, forgiveness, and truth.
- To provide any other services within its ability as requested.

We look forward to hearing from you and working with you.

NOTTINGHAM (STAPLEFORD)

From time to time things occur in our world, things which tend to stop mankind in his/her tracks and we cannot ignore them. That applies to everyone, including Christians. We may feel as Christians that they have nothing to do with us, but we live in this world and the things that happen in our world will always have plenty to do with us. We cannot ignore them. They need our prayers – and sometimes they need more than our prayers.

This past several weeks we saw the situation in Kabul as planeloads of refugees were flown out of Afghanistan to a number of countries, including over 15,000 to Britain. It was heart-touching to see them virtually fighting to get on a flight, with whatever they could carry in a small bag or on their backs. They are now here and are ‘temporarily’ being housed mainly in hotels until suitable accommodation can be found for them throughout the country. They are rapidly running out of essential items that they desperately need. The second week of September the congregation at Stapleford in Nottingham did a (admittedly small) bit to try and help.

By chance (Does God work “by chance”?!), Bob and Jean Eckman’s daughter Samantha was staying with them a few days, helping to sort out ‘stuff’ in their loft. Among them were suitcases. Bob and Jean had decided that they needed to cull the number of suitcases they had and get them down to just the ones they needed and would use. Most of those that were unwanted were still in very good condition and their plan was either to take them to charity shops or sell them in a car-boot sale. Sam had another idea.

In her work with the NHS, she works closely with a charity based in Lewisham, south London. She had heard that this charity (Lewisham Community Hub) was trying to help some of these refugees that were in their area. They were desperately in need of two things: 1) ‘essential’ items such as children’s underwear and socks, etc., nappies, and sanitary items, and 2) suitcases, as many of the refugees had nothing to keep their personal things in until they were settled.

The congregation funded the purchase of all of the items that went into the cases, and on 8th September Bob took them down on the train to London. He met up with Sam at London Bridge station (Sam’s office is about a five minute walk away). The three cases were handed over to Sam who in turn took them to the Lewisham Community Hub on the Friday where they were gratefully received. They were delivered that evening to 120 refugees who were being temporarily housed in a bridging hotel in SE London. This 120 had received no support until then.

“Then the righteous will answer him, ‘Lord, when did we see you...a stranger and invite you in, or needing clothes and clothe you?’ ....The King will reply, ‘I tell you the truth, whatever you did for the least of these brothers of mine, you did it for me’” (Matthew 25:37-40).

I am so proud of this congregation and all that it does to help people in need.

THE FINAL WORD

Seedtime and Harvest

It happened in the spring – it does every year – this feeling inside every gardener to put dead looking seeds into the ground or visit the garden centre to spend far too much money on the hope that something good will come about. They want to be able to see a rainbow of colours from their windows; there is an inner urge to eat home grown vegetables because they are the only food stuffs that have real taste. For some there is a sense of mischief to have hanging baskets that could put Babylon to shame, to have a lawn fit for Buckingham Palace, to have flowers better than Chelsea, to have something to be proud of!

Of course there is everyone else who cannot understand this thrill, happy to look at what others have done but they have no desire to be involved in such activities. But the gardeners know all about it. The seeds are not dead; they are the promise of harvest.

Of course there are all sorts of harvests: vegetables, flowers, fruit, followed on by the making of jams, pickles, cakes in a myriad flavours. Honey for the brave bee keeper, solace for the soul that worked the ground.

But there are other sorts of harvests entirely. Each year those in education take exams and there is a harvest of knowledge gained. The harvest of a marriage is the happy home and family. The harvest of training is a cup or a medal. The harvest of life is a home with Jesus.

Our eternal home is not prepared by us but by the greatest winner of all races, the greatest seed planter, the greatest victor of life, the one who looked death in the face and rose to conquer for the benefit of all.

Christians often think they are not good enough but we are not saved by works, even the best mankind can do. We are not saved by knowledge but by redeeming grace that lifts us up to realms unimaginable. We are not saved by anything we can imagine for God can do far more than we can think about or imagine. We are the harvest of God.

We go from the dry seed planted in divine love, watered with the tears from the cross and the warmth of the heart of God. We grow without our own understanding; what we see are imperfections, the warts of our failures. All the time we are nurtured for the greatest harvest, and the feast at the banqueting table of Heaven. Spring time and harvest, what a thrill.
